

SERBIA IS IN ENEMY'S POWER NOW

REPORTS INDICATE THAT BULGARIAN DRIVE HAS BEEN MOST SUCCESSFUL AND HAS CUT COMMUNICATION.

SITUATION IS CRITICAL

England Looks Upon Balkan Fighting as Most Grave at the Present Time and Anxiously Waits for Definite News.

London, Oct. 25.—Each succeeding telegram from the Balkans tells of the increasing gravity of Serbia's position. To the north the Bulgarian and Austro-German forces are within thirty-five miles of joining hands. To the south, half of Serbian Macedonia is in possession of the Bulgarians. If the report of their capture of Uskup is correct, this would mean that the invaders have in their hands, nearly all the means of communication.

The only favorable news from the standpoint of the entente powers, is found in the optimistic reports concerning the Franco-Serbian offensive near Krivopal, where the Bulgarians are said to be given way before a vigorous attack.

It is believed the British forces have left Saloniki, no news of their movements having been disclosed. Reports from various sources say the entente powers have revived their original plans, and now mean to land a tremendous contingent at Saloniki. This would serve the double purpose of meeting the demands of Greece and giving effective assistance to Serbia.

Athens reports that the Greek crown prince has gone to Saloniki, where he will confer with the emperor of France and British officials. It is thought here that the strength of the forces ultimately landed, may decide whether Greece will throw her lot with the allies.

ITALY ATTACK SERBS

Vienna, Oct. 25.—The official statement issued Sunday night by the Austrian war office, tells of desperate efforts by Italians to penetrate the Serbian front.

In the Isonzo district the enemy were unable to penetrate any part of our positions. Before the bridgehead of Gorizia, several attempts to attack Monte Sabotino broke down. After strong artillery preparations, considerable Italian forces attacked this dominating mountain position, and despite yesterday. Our troops firmly held all positions.

On the border of the plateau of Roberto in the sector between Mainizza and Monte Desislisi, the battle is raging with unrelenting violence.

Conditions have been more quiet in the southern sector. Repeated fresh attacks by the enemy failed completely. The Italians have obtained a foothold temporarily in only a few of our most treacherous. South of San Marino our infantry recaptured positions in hand to hand fighting.

ATTACK ON SERBS

In the Serbian theatre, the army of General Von Kervev, moved on from the Palanka across the heights north of Arangalovatz, and Serbian rear guards were repulsed south of Salina.

German forces, pushing forward on both sides of the Morava, captured the heights south of Palanka, and north of Petrova. Troops which crossed the river at Orsava, (near the Roumanian border) drove out the enemy from the mountainous country west of Kiedovo.

REPORT GERMAN ADVANCE

Berlin, Oct. 25.—Further advances of Austro-German troops on the Serbian front, including a successful forward movement of the new force which has crossed the Danube near Romanovka, were announced today.

RUSSIANS NOW TAKE OFFENSIVE AT RIGA

Heavy Fighting Still in Progress With No Further Progress for Germans, Berlin Admits.

Berlin, Oct. 25.—Heavy fighting is still in progress for possession of the Baltic port of Riga. The official report given out here today mentions no further progress for the Germans, and states that the Russians are now on the offensive on part of the Riga front.

INCENDIARY BOMBS RAINED ON VENICE

Italian City Is Again the Object of Attack By Teutonic Air Fleet.

Rome, Oct. 25.—Teutonic aeroplanes last night made two separate attacks with incendiary bombs on the city of Venice, according to an official announcement given out here today.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR DIES TODAY IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Constantinople, Oct. 25.—Baron Von Wattenheim, German ambassador to Turkey, died today. Baron Von Wattenheim was generally credited with having been a potent influence in bringing about intimate relations between Germany and Turkey.

BULGARIAN QUEEN TURNS TO NURSING AS COUNTRY'S SOLDIERS MARCH TO WAR

Queen of Bulgaria as a nurse.

The Queen of Bulgaria, whose ability as a nurse has been manifested time and again since she established in Sofia one of the finest and best equipped hospitals, has again taken actively to the work which she loves best—the thing nearest her heart, and so, while the soldiers of her kingdom are marching to war, she is devoting her time and attention to nursing the sick orphans in the orphanages of her country.

PLAMONDON FAMILY HAS A NEW TRAGEDY

Joseph Plamondon Killed in Auto Accident—Family Figured in Other Disasters.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Another chapter in the tragedy of the Plamondon family has been written in the death of Joseph Plamondon, of Muncie, Ind., who was killed Saturday in an automobile accident. The family has figured in three of the great disasters of the century: the troops there, the loss of the steamship Lusitania and sinking of Steamer Eastland.

Mrs. Plamondon was with her husband on their way to visit their parents in Lowell, Ind. She was so badly hurt she may never recover. The tragedy in the Plamondon family began with the troops there, the loss of the steamship Lusitania and sinking of Steamer Eastland.

Joseph Plamondon, killed in Saturday's automobile accident, was thirty-eight years old and vice president of the American Ladder Company of Muncie. He was second cousin of Chas. Plamondon who went down with the Lusitania.

REPORTED EIGHTY PER CENT OF STRIKERS BACK AT WORK

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Approximately 80 per cent of the 13,000 employees of the General Electric Company on strike for several weeks, returned to work today, according to estimates of company officials. Leaders of striking machinists, however, reported that only five of nearly 3,000 members of their craft, went back.

CARRANZA POSES FOR OIL PAINTING

This is the latest photograph of General Carranza, provisional president of Mexico, and was made while he was posing for an oil painting which has just been sent to the White House at Washington, D. C. There is nothing Carranza would rather do than pose for his picture. He considers it a great honor to appear before the moving picture camera, and will stop a battle most any time to accommodate a movie operator.

HOLD THREE FOR POT TO WRECKSHIPS

GERMAN ARMY OFFICER AND TWO OTHERS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY.

GET ONE TO CONFESS

Admits Experiments on Explosives Calculated to Disable Vessels Carrying Munitions to Allies.

New York, Oct. 25.—Robert Fay, who claims to be a lieutenant in the German army, and his brother-in-law, Walter L. Scholz, were arrested yesterday while testing explosives near Grantwood, New Jersey, were arraigned before a justice of the peace on charges of conspiracy and held without bail for examination tomorrow.

THIRD MAN ARRESTED

The arraignment of the two men disclosed the fact that a third man, Paul Daech, had been arrested early today at his home in Jersey City, after New York and New Jersey police searched the house. Daech was also arraigned with Fay and Scholz and held without bail.

Detectives say that expect Daech to prove a valuable witness, as he already had given them much important information. Daech said he was thirty-four years old. He came to this country in 1912, and was a graduate of Cologne university.

Announcement was made at police headquarters here today by Commissioner of Police, that Fay, after a night grueling, had made a confession. For more than twelve hours, it was stated, Fay stuck to his original story that he was not connected with the German government. At 5:20 p.m. morning, according to the commissioner, he broke down and admitted he was a lieutenant in the German army and came to this country two or three months ago, for the specific purpose of experimenting with a machine containing high explosives.

MACHINE TO DISABLE SHIPS

This machine, the commissioner said, contains a clock and a trigger which, when set, would explode a ship. The machine was so constructed, he said, that the striking of the water would cause a rod containing a quantity of dynamite to release a spring, resulting in an explosion which would disable the ship and force her to enter the nearest port.

This was for the purpose of delaying the shipping of munitions to the allies, it was stated. Only ships carrying war munitions were to be thus disabled, according to Fay's statement. A number of explosives left headquarters in an automobile early today, and it was said several arrests would be made today of men who were familiar with Fay's movement.

The authorities are lining up an investigation to discover, whether in arresting the two men, they had obtained the key to a long series of explosions on steamships, fires on piers and in ships in various war munition factories.

MAKES CONFESSION

Robert Fay later confessed he was a lieutenant of the 16th Saxony infantry and admitted he came here last April through an arrangement with the German government for the purpose of blowing up or delaying steamships sailing from this country with arms or ammunition for the allies.

Fay declared that he had been here he had acted independent of the German embassy or other German agents here. He added he had told Capt. Von Fappert, military attaché, and Captain K. von, naval attaché of the German embassy, of his plans, but said that both men told him not to interfere with steamships sailing from American ports or American munition factories.

WILL COMPLETE COMPLAINT ON MILWAUKEE TRACTION CO. WITHIN 10 DAYS' TIME

Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—It will probably be ten days before the attorney general office will have completed its complaint in the Milwaukee street railway cases charged with violations of the orders of the Wisconsin railroad commission. Deputy Attorney General Walter Drew said today that the complaint was nearly complete, but that it would be necessary to do it aside for a few days to complete the brief in the Northwestern Mutual insurance case, which is coming up for argument before the supreme court the latter part of the week.

The Northwestern Mutual is maintaining an action against the state for the return of large sums in the form of taxes which it claims have been illegally collected by the state, and to bring this suit was granted by the legislature.

FARM MANAGEMENT CONTESTS WILL INCREASE NEXT YEAR

Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—Farm management contests, which were popular throughout the state during the past season, will be held in more counties than ever during the coming winter. The number of farmers cooperating in this work will be materially increased, according to announcements made by B. H. Otis of the college of agriculture, who has charge of this work in Wisconsin. Formerly, the Board of Fort Atkinson and State Senator C. H. Everett of Racine have been strong supporters of this work and have promised their co-operation for the coming season. Four hundred and forty farmers participated in the last contest.

CULVER MILITARY ACADEMY LOST BLACK HORSE TROOP

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—Culver Military Academy lost its black horse troop early today, the sixty-five horses being burned to death when cross wires started a fire, which destroyed the stable. The troop will be replaced.

FIRE IN PITTSBURGH ENDANGERS LIVES OF FACTORY GIRLS

Blaze Starting in Seed Store Spreads to Box Factory, Menacing Many Employees.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 25.—Fire this afternoon in a seed store on the north side, spread to a box factory where a large number of girls were employed. First reports said that a number of lives had been lost.

As the flames rushed upward through the building, frightened girls ran to windows and began jumping to the streets. In an incredibly short time the entire structure was wrapped in flames and gathering crowds in the streets heard the screams of those unable to reach the windows.

Seven women were quickly gathered from the sidewalks and hurried to a nearby hospital, where one died soon after being there.

The factory was operated by the Union Paper Box company and officers said thirty-two girls were at work when the fire broke out. Seven of them jumped and three were taken out by firemen before the building collapsed, leaving twenty-two unaccounted for.

TROOPS IN PURSUIT OF BORDER BANDITS

Trail Gang of Mexicans Who Attacked Entrenched Infantry Camp During Last Evening.

Brownsville, Tex., Oct. 25.—Bandits who attacked an entrenched United States infantry camp within a mile of Brownsville early Sunday evening, escaped capture by more than 1,000 troops, rangers and deputies, who started in pursuit of them.

After the fight, daylight revealed there were possibly thirty or forty men in the two attacking parties which attempted to ambush the soldiers.

Some of the members of these bands were Mexicans from Brownsville. All roads entering Brownsville were guarded during the night by both civil and military details in belief that some of the bandits would try to hide in this city.

EGG HARBOR HUNTER WAS FATALLY SHOT SUNDAY

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Oct. 25.—William Newman, twenty-four of Egg Harbor, received mortal injuries from a shotgun while hunting here yesterday. He stumbled in the brush and the gun was discharged.

PLAN TO PRESERVE HOME OF LATE HENRY LONGFELLOW

JOHN METZINGER PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE

John Metzinger still maintained his plea of not guilty when arraigned in the municipal court this morning on an old charge of intoxication. He was released in the custody of Officer W. of Goway and had his case adjourned one week.

BATTLING WITH THE BRITISH IN FRANCE

Early in the war when the expeditionary forces were being mobilized and equipped, Sir Pertrab Singh, a seventy-year-old veteran Indian prince who had seen active service in the past, organized and equipped at his own expense almost an army corps of his subjects and offered both himself and his men to His Majesty King George. The moral effect of the action and the acceptance of the volunteers by the king has tended to cement the feeling of loyalty existing between India and England.

NEGROES LOOT SAFE OF GREEK BANKERS TODAY

Kansas City, Oct. 25.—Three negroes entering a general store owned by three Greeks, in Kansas City, Kas., early today, held up the proprietors and escaped with $5,700, which they took from an opened safe. The proprietors of the store acted as bankers for fellow Greeks.

MILITARY PROGRAM ENDORSED BY HAY AFTER CONFERENCE

Chairman of House Military Committee Anticipates Congress Will Readily Adopt Proposal.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Chairman Hay of the house military committee, went over the details of the military program with President Wilson today and announced it would have his hearty support. Chairman Hay said he considered the program very conservative and saw no reason why there should be difficulty in getting congress to adopt it.

Because the house committees are yet to be organized, there will be no hearings on the army bill before congress convenes, but afterward hearings will probably last for a month or six weeks. Mr. Hay saw no necessity for bond issue. Chairman Chamberlain of the senate military committee, will confer with the president next week. He also favors the program.

PREDICTS A SERIES OF SEVERE WINTERS

French Meteorological Authority Prophesies Twenty-Six Year Cycle of Cold Winter Weather.

Paris, Oct. 25.—The world's rain cycle beginning in 1902, which the French meteorological authority, Abba Noraux, director of the Bourges observatory predicted as a result of his study of the sun's face, is now, the abba says, ended. He forecasts a series, though not perhaps twice unbroken, of twenty-six hard winters, beginning the present year.

SUICIDE MAY HAVE SLAIN SECOND WIFE

Paroled Wife Murdered Hangs Self at Clinton, Iowa—Wife Found in Mississippi River.

Clinton, Ia., Oct. 25.—Whether George Channon, paroled wife murderer, who hanged himself in a rural school outbuilding, killed his second wife, a bride of three weeks, by breaking her neck and throwing her body in the Mississippi river, will be established, it is expected, at a coroner's inquest opened today over the body of Mrs. Channon, recovered from the river yesterday. Channon's body was found suspended by a wire from a rafter in the outbuilding two weeks ago.

Investigation of Channon's record has developed the fact that he had been paroled from the state reformatory at Anamosa, to which he had been sent for cutting the throat of his first wife. He is supposed to have quarreled with the second Mrs. Channon.

COTTON SHIP AFIRE ABANDONED BY CREW

Wireless Messages Bring Report That Ship Colorado Is Left to Fate of Flames.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 25.—The Malory liner, Colorado, which sailed from Charleston last night with cotton for New York, was abandoned, according to wireless messages received here today from the steamer Suwanee. The Suwanee reported the burning vessel had been sighted off Cape Rauman, thirty miles north of Charleston. It was reported that a merchant and a minor steamer had rescued the crew. The Colorado carried no passengers.

LIQUIDATION OF STATE DEBT SINCE CIVIL WAR IS STARTED THIS YEAR

Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—The liquidation of the state debt of $2,500,000 which has been on the books of the state treasury since the civil war, will be started this year by the payment of $100,000. This money was repaid to the state by the federal government, but has always been carried on the books as a loan from which the school funds drew interest. At the rate of re-payment designated by the last legislature it will take twenty-five years to liquidate the claim.

EXAMINATION DATES FOR APPLICANTS TO U. S. MILITARY SCHOOL

CHURCH MAY FIGHT PLAN FOR DEFENSE

RETIRING CONGREGATIONALIST MODERATOR PROPOSES CAMPAIGN AGAINST ARMAMENT.

RESOLUTION DEBATED

Some Decisive Action Expected Before Close of Today's Convention Session—May Call on Other Churches.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 25.—A resolution to place the national council of Congregational churches on record against increase armaments in the United States was presented at today's session by the business committee on behalf of Rev. Dr. Chas. E. Jefferson of Broadway Tabernacle, New York City, moderator J. M. Beardsley, of Kansas City, after relinquishing the chair to Professor Williston Walker, of Yale, offered an amendment which in effect would ask all churches in the country, without regard to creed, to join in some way in a movement against militarism and increased armaments and toward a path which would bring an early peace in Europe.

Several clergymen spoke on the matter, but as it had been taken up unexpectedly, and debate was encroaching upon time assigned for other subjects, a motion prevailed that the business committee have the resolution and amendment printed and brought in this afternoon for action.

The Jefferson resolution follows: "Whereas the great war now desolating Europe has laid bare the fallacies which lie at the basis of policy of armed peace and has demonstrated the futility of gigantic armaments as a guarantee of international security and peace, and

Whereas various forces are at present working mightily to sweep the American republic into the same course of governmental action which has brought upon Europe immeasurable disaster; therefore we, the representatives of the Congregational churches of the United States in national council assembled, view with painful solicitude the organized and desperate efforts to stampede the nation at this time with wild and extravagant expenditure for ships and guns and placed upon record not our earnest objection to the committing of our nation just now to a policy of so-called preparedness for which Europe is now paying an appalling price.

"We appeal to the President of the United States and to members of congress soon to assemble, to see to it that the enormous sums already appropriated for the army and navy shall be more efficiently expended; and to bend the entire energy of our government not to this crisis in human history but to the elimination of the machinery of destruction, but to the working out in cooperation with other governments of a plan of international disarmament which shall render the recurrence of the present world's tragedy impossible."

DELIVERS ARGUMENT AGAINST CHARLTON

Crown Prosecutor Makes Strong Allegations Against American on Trial for Slaying Wife.

Como, Italy, Oct. 25.—The crown prosecutor delivered his argument to the jury today in the case of Porter Charlton, the American on trial for the murder of his wife. He denied Charlton was mentally responsible even momentarily at the time the deed was committed.

The prosecutor denied Charlton had provoked the killing by his wife and insinuated he married her for her savings, and he had appropriated her jewels after having killed her. He concluded his address with a demand for a heavy sentence.

Speaking in defense of Charlton, his attorney maintained that the prisoner was an epileptic and he was wholly irresponsible when the crime was committed. But even if the jury did not wish to admit that, he urged, it should at least give its assent to the claim that the defendant was not more than partly responsible, and there was in addition great provocation.

STEVENS POINT RESIDENT KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Stevens Point, Wis., Oct. 25.—John K. Land, engineer in a local brewery, was killed in an automobile accident near Roshold today. ## THREE WOMEN TAKEN TO STATE'S PRISON

ROCKFORD TRIO, CONVICTED OF SHOPLIFTING, BEGIN PENITENTIARY TERMS.

FOR EIGHTEEN MONTHS

Entered Pleas of Guilty and Received Sentences Before Judge Grimm Saturday afternoon.

Louise Nelson, Grace Green and Esther Halero, three Rockford women convicted of shoplifting before Judge Grimm in circuit court upon their pleas of guilty, left early this morning in the custody of the sheriff for the state penitentiary where they will begin their eighteen months' term, the sentence imposed on each by Judge Grimm. They spent Sunday at the county jail, where the husbands of two of them came to bid them farewell.

Wear Heavy Vells.

The women arrived Saturday afternoon at the penitentiary and were shortly before four o'clock. They were accompanied by T. M. Green, Mrs. Green's husband, who is an attorney in Rockford. All of the women wore heavy vells and except Mrs. Green kept their faces covered except while making their pleas and while the court pronounced their sentence.

District Attorney Evidice briefy outlined the operations of the three women in stealing goods from local stores on March 13. He mentioned several of the places which lost most, naming some of the articles which were taken, explaining that the women must have had the wholesale shoplifting expedition planned as they were equipped with suit cases and boxes, in which they packed the stolen articles, leaving them in lockers at the interurban station. The total value of goods taken, Mr. Dunwiddie said, amounted to more than $500. As far as he could learn the women are in no better circumstances at Rockford and have husbands who are abundantly able and do support them as well as they could wish. Mr. Dunwiddie made no plea to the length of their term, but reserved the matter entirely to the discretion of the court.

Attorney Charles E. Pierce of this city, counsel for the trio, made a plea to the court to reduce the term of the state and under our code of morals there is no excuse for these women," he said, "and the sole excuse which can be offered for them is the love of money and personal adornment which is an inherent frailty and weakness with all women. It is, in fact, a trait which is encouraged by men as your honor knows. But in punishing the women for what they have done, your honor will know that the innocent must suffer. All of these women have loyal, hard-working husbands, who, if you send them to the penitentiary, will be deprived of their native and homelands, and two of them, Mrs. Halero and Mrs. Green have children who will miss the mothers and love of tender-hearted mothers."

Says Offense is Common.

"I can give you my word that this is their first offense. And your honor knows it is a fact that these women are not alone in offenses of this character. There are many, many women, both rich and poor, are constantly falling to the temptation to appropriate some finery. In the case of the rich woman, she pays a big price for her goods and the matter is hushed up."

Judge Grimm in a lengthy and compassionate talk before passing sentence, explained to the trio that the law required him upon their conviction of the crime named in the complaint, to sentence them from one to five years in the state's prison. Such term, he declared, under the modern ideal of criminology, was not so much for punishment for the offense as to secure reformation.

Lectured by Grimm.

"I can hardly understand the impulse which could have prompted you women in committing this offense," said Judge Grimm. "Why should the love of money compel you to such stratagems? It is not the woman with expensive clothes that can command the respect of husband and friends, but it is the man, even though plainly dressed, woman with the clear eye and frank countenance who makes the loyal loving wife, and esteemed friend. Even though you had escaped detection in your crime you would have been convicted and continuously hounded and accused you. You would know in your own minds that you had done wrong and, thus started on the road of crime, there is nothing but a downward slide. You would sooner or later have been detected and punished. Such a course of action as you had started could not lead you into serious difficulties."

"There are none of us who are free from wrong-doing. All are liable to err. It is not for us to throw stones or point the accusing finger. But in your effort to do right, in our continued seeking and striving to overcome our human frailties, there lies what little credit we may attain for right living. Think right and you will live, and act right."

"It grieves me to know that you have honorable, upright husbands who must thus bear the sorrow and burden of your wrong-doing, and that two of you have little children who need your care and attention. In view of these circumstances, I am inclined to leniency. Indeed, if the law gave me power and I had the solemn assurance that you would refrain from any repetition of such offenses as you are herewith charged, I would be inclined to let you go free, but I have not such assurance, nor does the law permit me. I can only hope that you will resolve to live better lives, be faithful wives when you are through with your sentences, and upon the condition that you henceforth give no further trouble, that you may return to the life of straight living, the prosecuting attorney has promised that the other charges which are named in the information filed against you will not be pressed. I trust right Mr. Dunwiddie."

Pronounces Sentence.

Judge Grimm then pronounced sentence, stating that the term would be in at noon today that the prisoners must be employed at hard labor during the term of imprisonment, and the law so prescribes, and that the first day only shall be in solitary confinement.

The women were then given into the custody of Deputy Sheriff Wagon, who escorted them to the county jail. The shoplifting operations for which the women were convicted were of the most astounding character. The trio visited the city on Saturday, March 13, with the intent of a day's work, judging from the results, their dresses, they were able to gather up suits, coats, dresses, shoes, whole bolts of silk, sets of furs and innumerable smaller articles. It was not until late in the evening that the women were discovered and their arrest made.

rest made. According to police the women had conducted similar operations in Beloit and two warrants were issued for their arrest on the Line City, on the same or previous occasions.

BELOIT MAN'S AUTO KNOCKED INTO DITCH

Earl Barnes Victim of Car Driver Who Heeds Not the Rules of the Road Saturday Night.

Beloit, Oct. 25.—Police of this city and of Janesville and other cities in the southern part of the state have been asked to be on the lookout for a light touring car with a badly damaged front fender and a radiator more or less bent as the result of an accident Saturday night about three miles north on the river road.

Earl Barnes of this city was coming towards Beloit in his car. Another automobile was coming from the south. The northbound autoist failed to observe the car with a car and struck Barnes' machine with terrific force, knocking it back and into the ditch. Aside from numerous small injuries Barnes' car had a broken wheel. The northbound driver sped up his machine following the accident, and was soon out of sight, before the local man could catch his number.

Pioneer Succumbs.

The death of Mrs. Sarah Frances McLennan, the widow of the late Col. H. H. McLennan, occurred at the home, about a mile and a half northwest of Beloit, at 8:45 o'clock last evening. The deceased had been a resident of Beloit since 1857, coming from Lancaster, Pa. When she was born. She is survived by four children. The funeral services will be held at the home at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

FARMERS ARE ADVISED TO SAVE THEIR SEED CORN UNTIL NEXT YEAR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—From reports coming into the office of the secretary of the Wisconsin Agricultural association it is evident that Wisconsin farmers are saving but little seed corn. This, according to the advice of this association, is a grave mistake, and the consequences will be most serious next season.

"Many farmers," he says, "are of the opinion that there is little or no corn in the fields worth saving, where as a diligent search will reveal some ears that could be saved for seed. All of us who can find corn, which has passed the dough stage, should save these ears which are destined, should they be saved, to be used as seed. As far as can be determined, the recent frost did not injure the vitality of the ears and if there is any possible chance of saving seed, it should be done. We certainly will be paying extra high prices next spring if every effort is not made now to save what ever seed corn we have. It would be a grave misfortune if a Wisconsin farmer had to depend entirely upon the large, cared varieties from more southern states, which under ordinary conditions would not mature well in Wisconsin."

INCREASE IN DESERTION AND SUICIDE IN JAPAN'S ARMY IS INVESTIGATED.

Tokio, Oct. 25.—The frequency of army desertion, as well as suicide of some of the deserters, is causing some concern among the military authorities. Statistics show that during last year there were 956 cases of desertion, of which 93 per cent were common soldiers. Tokio leads other cities with 184 cases while there were 112 cases at Osaka. About of the total, 258 soldiers were brought before the military court and punished while 698 deserters voluntarily surrendered before the three days' grace had expired.

The increase of suicide among deserters is believed to be due to the reduction of days of grace during the war from six to three days, the deserter sometimes preferring to kill himself than face the shame of court-martial.

Deserters who surrender before the three days are restored to their services with a light admonition. If they delay their return they become fugitives and are peremptorily punished on their arrest by the military court.

TRADE COMMISSION PLUM TO INDIANAN

Leonidas L. Bracken has just been appointed to the much desired place as secretary to the federal trade commission at $5,000 per year. This appointment has been eagerly sought by a hundred or more candidates. It is said that Mr. Bracken was not an active candidate for the position, but was selected for his legal and business qualifications and general fitness for it. Mr. Bracken is thirty-six years old and has been practicing law at Muncie, Ind., for the past twelve years. He is a graduate of the University of Indiana and the law school of the Illinois Wesleyan University.

Camel CIGARETTES

hit the taste of the most exacting smokers because they are blended choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos. This new flavor is simply delightful—smooth, mild, refreshing; plenty of satisfying "body." Camels leave no unpleasant cigarette after-taste.

You smoke Camels liberally because they will not bite the tongue or parch the throat. Compare them any way you like with any cigarette at any price! Quality—no premiums!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages, 20 for 10c; or 10 packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-covered carton for $1.00. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

PROHIBITION ISSUE IS NOW IN NORWAY

Temperance Movement Gaining Momentum in all of the Scandinavian Countries.

Oslo, Norway, Oct. 25.—The prohibition movement which, since the beginning of the war, has been gaining momentum in all the Scandinavian countries, has become in Norway a leading issue in the present political campaign. Gudmar Knudsen, the prime minister, stated in a recent speech that country-wide prohibition would be an achievement of the near future. But except among socialists and radical circles which have strongly espoused the prohibition cause, it is thought that the economic and international complications resulting from such a reform will make it impracticable at least inadvisable. The wine-producing European countries do not look favorably upon the enactment of their liquor exports to Norway, and it is felt here that in the case of prohibition reforms, they will undertake reprisals which will seriously injure the commercial and financial standing of the country. In 1906, when the legislature passed a law restricting the import of French wines, Norwegian bondholders refused a rating on the Paris exchange, and the bill was repealed. The French declaration, made at this time, to the effect that France would assume the liberty of making reprisals against any Norwegian legislation detrimental to France's wine trade, is still in force. France, Spain and Portugal, according to a tariff declaration of 1914, will double the duty on articles imported from countries which throw difficulties in the way of the wine trade. The Norwegian exports to these countries are several million dollars in excess of the imports, and any interference with these exports would work a serious commercial injury to Norway. Norway, at present, enjoys the "most favorite nation" clause in her commercial treaties with France. If France feels that her wine exports to Norway are being restricted, she may, according to the tariff declaration already mentioned, "take any steps the circumstances dictate" including the raising of harbor dues for Norwegian ships in French harbors, which will make it difficult for Norway to compete with other nations. France, at present, takes half of all the wood pulp and cellulose produced in Norway and Portugal and Spain each take thirty per cent of Norway's split cod.

Those opposed to prohibition use these arguments to show that a small country like Norway, which is in so many ways dependent on other countries, cannot without injuring profits, cannot without disturbing her financial position, adopt as strict a degree of prohibition as has been urged. All parties, however, are agreed that there should be a strict control of the sale of alcoholic beverages and that their consumption should be replaced by light wines and beer.

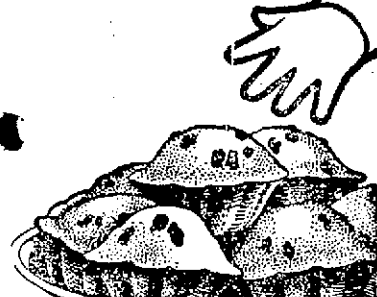

It is also argued that Norway's long coast-line and thousands of protected fjords would make it impossible to prevent wholesale smuggling. It is also common in Norway to make wine—some of it containing a high per cent of alcohol—out of blueberries, currants and apples, which are sold by grocers without special license. Critics of the prohibition program state that it would be difficult to enforce a law to prevent people from distilling berry wines and stronger alcoholic drinks in their own kitchens for home use.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Jas. Fealey and Mrs. Glen Noble of Milwaukee are guests this week of Mrs. Owen Reddy. Yesterday the three ladies spent the day in Janesville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chamberlain left this morning for Stevens Point to visit their daughter, Mrs. Joe Weyher and family.

Mrs. Maude Lowry, deputy for the Royal Neighbor, returns today to her home in Footville, after spending nearly two weeks in Whitewater working in the interest of the lodge. She has been very successful in her work here and a class of around 15 time in November.

Miss Clara Peterson who is attending the Normal school here, spent Saturday and Sunday with her father, Alderman H. C. Peterson in Stoughton.

Geo. Meadows of East Troy is visiting his family, Mrs. George Porter and family.

Archie Rebb is here visiting his brother, Howard, at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coxie entertained a Kensington supper at their cottage at Lauderdale lake Thursday night.

Mr. J. J. Sprenger of New Hampton, Iowa, came Monday for a short visit with his sister, Mrs. W. Hurlbut.

Mrs. Henry Bazely and little daughter, Natalie, also Mrs. Hill of Ripon, visited their sister and cousin, Mrs. Francis Higgins a few days this week.

Captain Frank Nickerson left Wednesday for an extended visit to the south and west. His first stop will be at Leavenworth, Kansas.

From their home near Leavenworth, Kansas, and then on to San Francisco, Captain Nickerson expects to meet his brother, Reuben, and wife who will arrive from Philadelphia some time this month. They will spend some time near Plentywood, Montana visiting Earl and Elmer Nickerson and Stanley Downey before returning home.

Will Allen and Fred Winkelman were in Madison Saturday to see the Ohio-Wisconsin football game.

Eddie O'Donnell who has been making a good record as a speed king for himself throughout the country, was here the first of the week visiting his father, James O'Donnell. He goes from here to Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ginner are visiting friends at North Troy.

Norton Lee spent last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lee at Stoughton.

Miss Ethel Sobole of Stoughton, visited one day last week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Gunderson.

Phil Dorr, who is teaching at McHenry, Ill., came home last evening for the first time since he left for the football game here Saturday.

The Epworth League rally for group three of the Janesville district, opened yesterday afternoon at the M. E. church. A large number of delegates were present and an interesting and profitable meeting was held last evening.

The meeting opened with a song service, followed by a devotion, service conducted by Rev. E. M. Oliver of Lake Mills. Miss Helen Maston gave a reading and Dr. O. T. Ruffalo gave a short talk on the work of the social department. The address of the evening was given by Rev. Thomas Gardner of Milwaukee on "We Must Chime." A sunrise prayer meeting was held this morning at the M. E. church and at seven the entire company started out for an automobile ride around the city.

Whitewater, Oct. 25.—The first conference game of Normal schools was played here last Saturday. Whitewater played the local squad at Hamilton field and Whitewater, winning 32 to 0. The old style play was used a great deal and Plattville's line was opened time after time with great gains. Then again the open play was resorted to and many a pretty forward pass was pulled successfully. The first half ended 27 to 0 and nearly as many were made in the second half. Plattville used the open play a great deal but were unable to do much of anything. Carey of Plattville had his collar bone broken in the first half of the game.

Malcolm Tidmarsh of Fall River spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Tidmarsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lean of Lauderdale lakes made a short visit with Mrs. A. McLane here yesterday.

Miss Bertha Loomer was home from Beloit from Friday till Sunday. Miss Anna Maas returned to her home at Leavenworth, after a short visit here with her sister.

Joe Lenox leaves today for New York City, from which place he takes the steamship Baltic on Wednesday for Glasgow, Scotland, to visit his parents. Mr. Lenox has not decided as to joining the British troops, but may be induced to later on. He has been a farm hand in this vicinity for several years.

A. B. Smith and family of Palmyra were guests Sunday at the home of their mother, Mrs. Emeline Smith. Their daughter, Hazel, remained over night, the guest of Miss Nellie Coombe.

Miss Ruby Worthington visited her mother, Mrs. Don Worthington, at Corliss over Sunday. She went with her uncle, John Clark, and family of Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis came yesterday from Racine and were guests over night of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown. Mr. Lewis came to be present at the Hanson & Evans auction today, looking up stock for the Racine county farm.

Mrs. Horace Merrill of Benson, Arizona, was here Saturday to visit her uncle, Ole Rye. Mrs. Merrill has been in the vicinity for some time visiting relatives at Johnston, Janesville and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kading visited in Madison over Sunday.

Mrs. E. C. Fish goes today to Elgin to attend the funeral of her brother's wife.

The condition of Alfred Anderson, who was hurt last week with a corn binder, was very alarming Saturday evening, but yesterday he was reported much improved. His uncle, Wm. Halgerson, and family were out to see him yesterday. His report that last evening the doctors thought there was a chance for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Conry and three children of Delavan spent today at the home of her father, Dr. G. R. Horne.

Lizzie Dierhoff, who lives west of this city, came near losing her index finger on the left hand last Friday when it was caught in a corn binder. The flesh was torn from the finger and part of the next one was badly lacerated.

Partly cloudy and colder tonight; Tuesday fair; colder in east portion.

THE RETAIL TRADE.

Do people who buy goods away from home stop to think how retail trade lies at the foundation of our prosperity?

A very large share of the taxes of any community is paid by the retail merchants or their employees. Many of the employees may pay no direct taxes, but they rent houses on which taxes are paid. If the home stores didn't employ these people, the houses would stand empty, or more likely would never have been built.

If every one would make it a point to buy goods whenever possible in the home town, our merchants would increase their business and pay more taxes. This would make possible more public improvements, a lower tax rate or both.

If we all got the "Buy away from home" fever, some of our merchants would have to quit, while others would have to reduce their stocks, and turn off part of their help. Many houses would be vacant. Taxable property would fall off, and strict municipal economy would be necessary. It would hurt every public service supported out of taxes.

When you send money out of town, you help pay taxes and secure public improvements somewhere else. Better keep it at home to get our own public improvements with. Sending money away is killing the goose that lays the golden egg. While we are reaching out for pennies we think we are saving; we are subtracting the dollars that build up home prosperity, and on which our public well-being depends.

The success of retail trade is essential to the town's advancement in all lines of progress. If the merchants and their employees are doing well, they contribute freely to churches, lodges, charities, and all our philanthropies. Taking money away from the home trade currents is taking it away from all these interests, so vital to the advancement of the town.

A JUST SENTENCE.

In passing a sentence of eighteen months at hard labor upon the three Rockford women who systematically traveled from their home city to Beloit and Janesville for the purpose of stealing the goods of merchants, Judge Grimm administered the law as he found it without fear or favor. The sentence is a just one and should be a lesson to others who seek to take that which does not belong to them. It is a protection to the merchants of the cities in which these three women worked. There was no need for sympathy in their case. They started out fully equipped for their adventure. They had all the paraphernalia of the professional shop-lifter and made good use of their opportunities to secure valuables, secret them, and escape detection. They were not innocent women lured by the finer things of life, but they were not to be pitied. They were cold-blooded, calculating, and planned all details of their trip and the punishment fits the crime. After months of delay they have been punished and the authorities are to be congratulated upon their success in bringing to justice such offenders.

OBERRAMMGAU DEFILED.

War in all its horrors is brought home to us by the dispatches which come from the fighting lines of Europe. The Milwaukee News comments upon the statement that Oberammergau, the scene of the famous Passion Play, has been defiled by the ravages of war, in the following editorial which tells much of the real situation that exists on the other side of the Atlantic. The editorial in question says:

"The toll of the war has exacted a tribute in the death of Anton Lang, who enacted the part of Christ in the Passion Play at Oberammergau. The war makes a mockery of the teaching of peace on earth and good will to men."

"Here was a man, belonging to a sect which believed that the highest honor is the hereditary right to reenact the sufferings of the Prince of Peace for the sins of the world, dragged into a struggle where he was expected to assist in every way possible to take the life of his fellow man. His life is worth no more in the eyes of the Creator than the unknown man who stood next in the trench during the long hours waiting the signal to attack or defend, but his connection with the exemplification of the divine lessons of brotherly love, symbolical of the time when strife shall be forever driven from the world, impresses the instability of society in its professed intentions to cultivate the most noble attributes of the soul."

"What has really inspired the war? Is it jealousy, envy, or the love of money and the lure of dominion by one set of men over another, or is it a yielding to the quarrelsome instinct of the animal kingdom from which the human part of man cannot escape itself? Is it a lack of proper education or simply ungovernable temper and perverseness?"

"The laws to protect society against crime are rigidly enforced. No offender escapes being called to account for the violation of a law if he can be apprehended, yet nations kill and destroy and justify their crimes under the name of war. There is something wrong in the social order that permits such things and it is traced directly to the individual for the individuals make up nations and society."

"Undoubtedly the succeeding horrors of this war will set up a wave of thought which will emphasize the things that are important in established society and will reject inconsequential matters as not being of sufficient concern to civilized nations. War is neither a matter of armament or disarmament. It is a condition brought about by human activity and the nation should control itself even as the respectable citizen controls his thoughts and actions."

T. E. BENNISON.

When a man in the prime of life drops out of the active ranks, a vacancy is created that is often difficult to fill, for while his routine work may be carried on by others, the personality of the man himself is lacking. This is especially true of men who combine with business ability the rare graces of character which win the love and confidence of associates, and command the respect of the community.

Such a man was the late T. E. Bennison, whose untimely death came as a sad surprise to his many friends in the city, and whose loss will be keenly felt. Mr. Bennison was an exceptional man. He had no enemies because his charity was so broad, and his love for humanity so intense that no unkind word was ever uttered. He was on good terms with himself, and with everyone in whom he came in contact.

Mr. Bennison possessed a strong religious nature highly developed, and the church of his choice enjoyed his most loyal and devoted service. He was an intelligent, as well as a tireless worker, and his liberality was in keeping with his love for the cause which he delighted to serve.

Mr. Bennison was an honest man. He was a possessor as well as a professor, and people who knew him never doubted his sincerity. The God he served was a tangible Being and the service rendered was prompted by a loving heart. He was a conservative and wise counselor, and his judgment was always respected.

When a man drops out of the way, before his time has run, and he leaves an open tomb and asks the question, "Why?" But echo is the only answer. This is the question which comes with hard significance to the home, and the echo seems like a mockery, yet death is as natural as life, and is waiting just around the corner to claim us.

Mr. Bennison's life was an open book. He lived to a purpose and accomplished a mission fraught with many pleasant memories, which will linger as a benediction.

The question is asked, what has become of the girl who formerly used to ride fifty miles a day on a bicycle so as to keep up with her young men friends? Can't say, but you wouldn't get her daughter to go riding in the back seat of a Ford.

The ministers used to think they had to go out on the street corners to reach the people who wouldn't go to church, but perhaps just now they might better take their stand at a gasoline station along a country highway.

After some people have given wedding presents, making hundreds of dollars to the president, who does not need or care for them, it will of course come hard to find a dollar to give to the poor.

After the office-seekers have had their innings at Shadow Lawn, the president's new summer white house, there may be so little grass that it might better be called Shadow Sand Bank.

In view of the disposition of the European powers to regard their treaties as scraps of paper, Uncle Sam will have to prepare himself to turn their warships into scraps of iron.

The excitement caused by the Zeppelin bombs in London must have been almost equal to the consternation at Yale when those five athletes were disbarred from the games.

After kicking because their wives spend ten dollars on a new fall hat which will last all winter, some men will go out and drop fifteen dollars on one evening's hands of poker.

Some people seem to think that Mr. Marshall should not be nominated vice-president again, but it is not customary to let people dodge this unpopular job as easily as that.

Carranza may be president of Mexico, but he will perhaps not venture to sit down in the presidential chair without moving it in reach of the rear exit door.

It might be thought that naturally the Turks would offer a bounty for dead Armenians, if it were not that perhaps they believe in game preservation.

The fact that there are not any officers enough is held to be clearly proved at Washington by the scarcity of uniformed men at the dances.

SNAP SHOTS

Look back on the funerals you have attended and you will be surprised to find that a good many of them were those of men who had been very careful of their diet.

Waldorf The Faithful.

When money talks, the world stops to listen.—Prof. Stimp.

Zuke Yickets, sitting in deep meditation at his desk, called to him his faithful old clerk, Waldorf Spits.

"Waldorf," said Yickets, "for thirty-nine years now you have been my faithful clerk, always knowing your place, never presuming to ask or expect a raise in salary, always faithful."

"Yes sir," admitted the old man respectfully.

"Well, Waldorf, I think I'll shall have to declare myself a bankrupt. I've tried out in the state there is only $760 to pay it with. But I must have a plausible excuse to give my creditors.—Deerhead, the canned hoopfish man, the titles, the shredded tomato, the rest of them.

You have brains, Waldorf, and you are faithful. I wish you would think the matter over to-night."

Respectfully, the faithful old clerk assented.

Next morning when Zuke Yickets entered his shop he found the safe very open and very empty, with this note on top of it: "The safe has been taken the safe of the West Managla Islands. I think this will provide you with the best kind of an excuse for your creditors, Waldorf Spits."

He never got discouraged but he built a handy gun. It proved to have just one defect: His fine invention wouldn't float.

He worked upon a touring car. It was not long before he was done. It proved a peach. The only thing about it was, it wouldn't run.

Discouraged, he from science turned. He seemed to think he had no chance.

He had a happy thought one day. And he invented a new dance.

He is the hero of the hour. He finds investors and to spare. He teaches this new dance himself And he's a multi-millionaire.

UNCLE ABNER

So long as a woman has got a good plume that she can do with, she always have a new hat by spending $5 or 40 cents.

Somebody has stole the rope off'n the engine house, bell in our village, stealing the goods of merchants. Judge Grimm administered the law as he found it without fear or favor.

Every time a hardened bachelor casts an eye in the direction of any eligible woman, the business man all hear wedding bells ringing in the distance.

Some young women are born foolish, and others go out riding in canoes with moon-eyed romances.

A hero gets along all right until somebody names a 5-cent seegar after him. Then it is all off.

The most forlorn critter I know of is a fellow who has mortgaged his house and lot to buy an automobile and then hasn't got money enough to run it.

A Great Man.

A great man is the man who fixes his own automobile. If you don't seem to realize at first glance that he is a great man, he will tell you that he is before you have talked with him for three minutes. But the great man who fixes his automobile is always fixing it. He starts in to fix it when there is really nothing wrong with it and he always begins fixing the wrong thing. After he fixes a thing that doesn't need fixing that thing never works right until he sends his car to the factory to be overhauled. After he fixes one thing that doesn't need fixing he is so pleased with himself that he keeps right on fixing until he has the whole internal mechanism of the thing chattered out of place and his car makes a noise like a tin peddler's cart running away, or a switch engine hauling a train load of sheet iron garbage cans over a piece of black track. The best way for a man to fix his own car is to leave it alone. Nine times out of ten it will regulate itself.

Dope Friends

Tell me not in mournful numbers, Life is but an empty dream; That the loads of coke they send us Are not really what they seem.

Tell me not that they do soak it, That they soak it through and through Till one ton of this rich fuel Weighs about as much as two.

Life is real and life is earnest, And it's really not a joke. When we cough our hard-earned smoke into the water in the coke.

Probably the Latter.

Man in New York says he can tell a woman's disposition without marrying her. He is the only one of his kind, or a liar.

Shakespeare's Legs.

There is no authority for the opinion that Shakespeare had one of his legs broken in a drunken brawl outside of a sonnet written by Marlowe, himself a brilliant debauchee and notorious liar. Apart from Marlowe's diatribe, there is nothing to show that the great dramatist had a broken or deformed leg.

YOUR BRONCHIAL TUBES

When a cold settles in the bronchial tubes, with that weakening, tickling cough, immediate treatment is very important. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fevers present, your head jars with every cough and your chest may ache. This is no time for experimenting or delay—you must get Scott's Emulsion at once to drive out the cold which started the trouble, and it will check the cough by aiding the healing process of the encrusted membranes.

If you have any symptoms of bronchitis, or even a stubborn cold, always remember that Scott's Emulsion has been relieving this trouble for forty years. It is free from alcohol or drugs. Refuse substitutes.

POLITICAL INTEREST IN M'ADOO'S VISIT

Expect That Visit Will Result in Political Conference of Leading Wilson Men in State.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—The announcement that William C. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury in President Wilson's cabinet, is to speak in Madison next Saturday, is causing more than a flutter of interest in democratic political circles here. While the gymnasium speech will be non-political in character, his visit will have political significance, justifying from the fact that Mr. McAdoo will be the guest of John A. Aylward, United States district attorney for the western district while here. In his telegram announcing his coming, Mr. McAdoo has asked that United States Senator Paul O. Hastings of Mayville be notified so that he may be in Madison at the time.

Aylward is recognized as one of the leading Wilson men of the state and with his former law-partner, Joseph E. Davies, head of the federal trade commission, the boom for Wilson in the state was started nearly four years ago. It is believed by political advisors here that the McAdoo visit will be the center of a political conference many of the leading Wilson men in the state preparatory to the coming presidential campaign.

Foremost among the political troubles in Wisconsin among the democrats which it is said will be talked over with Secretary McAdoo and perhaps settled will be the federal judgeship. Judge Martin Lueck has been named for the position by Senator Hastings. The name of Mr. Aylward has been assigned to the fore by Mr. Davies. Differences among the democrats has caused a delay in the appointment, but it is believed that Senator Hastings may be persuaded to withdraw his name by the leaders at the conference next Saturday.

Democratic possibilities for governor will also be talked. It was admitted here today that William Wolfe of Le Crosse would be asked to come here to participate in the conference. It being generally conceded here that both the Aylward and Hastings democrats would favor him. Others mentioned as gubernatorial possibilities are: Evan Evans, Baraboo; T. J. Cunningham, Chippewa Falls; and E. J. Dempsey, Oshkosh.

Secretary McAdoo will arrive in Madison at 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening and will remain in Madison until Sunday afternoon. He comes here from St. Paul, having been west to the exposition.

AMERICANS AIDING IN EQUIPPING RAILROAD TRAINS FOR HOSPITAL NEEDS

Paris, Oct. 25.—Equipping railway trains for hospital service is a new development of charity in France in which Americans are taking an active part. During the recent reorganization of the entire hospital service, the need for properly arranged trains to transport the wounded from the front to the hospitals located throughout France became evident.

The first step in improving the service was the addition to each train of a car equipped with an operating table and surgical supplies so that wounded soldiers might be treated during the journey from the front to the permanent hospital perhaps hundreds of miles away. One of the first cars so attached to a train was a freight car rebuilt at the expense of Mrs. Washington Lopp. She contributed the money to Commandant L. Laiseur, in charge of the temorary hospitals at each of the railway stations of Paris and of the construction yards of the state railway, and then requested others of her friends to provide money for the same purpose.

To date a number of Americans have helped, one car having been fitted up by money sent from Hawaii through Dr. James R. Judd and friends. Among other Americans thus contributing are Walter B. Hardy of Chicago and Mrs. Emory R. Johnson of Philadelphia. As a result of the rebuilding of these first freight cars for this purpose, to date no less than fifty cars have been remodeled with money contributed by individuals or cities of France. So great has been the use of these cars to the military surgeons that the war department has authorized the placing of one with each of the 250 hospital trains now in service in France.

SEEK TO BLAME GOD BY MAKING EXCUSES

FRAILTY OF ARGUMENTS ADVANCED BY NON-BELIEVERS UNCOVERED BY REV. THORSON.

ARE REFUGE OF LIES

Pastor of Norwegian Lutheran Church Delivers an Able Address on Sunday Morning.

Revealing the weakness and frailty of excuses which are offered by persons who have not professed Christianity and accepted God, Reverend T. C. Thorson urged all such to abandon their frail arguments and take advantage of the salvation which is offered to all men, in an able sermon Sunday morning at the Norwegian Lutheran church. By offering excuses for not professing Christianity, he said, one seeks to blame God for his own weakness and shift the responsibility from his own shoulders to those of the Almighty.

It is fair to suppose that those who give excuses are more or less sincere in the belief that their excuses are well founded and have some strength," said Mr. Thorson in beginning his address. "But let us examine some of the reasons which are advanced for not receiving Christ and see whether they are as reliable as their authors would have us suppose, or whether they are in fact, 'a refuge of lies,' in the words of the text."

Mr. Thorson's text was Isaiah, "Judgment will I lay to the line, and righteousness to the plummet, and half shall sweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters shall overflow the hiding place." One of the excuses we hear most often advanced by the persons who are slow to seek God," continued the speaker is, "I haven't the time." Perhaps it is the farmer who explains that he has to rise early and toil late, and his life is crowded with the demands of his occupation. Perhaps it is the carpenter or the clerk who complains that his labors are such that they leave no time for religion, but it may be that these same persons have time for the card table, the dance hall and Sunday baseball games. They do not care to give up earthly pleasures for the sake of saving their eternal souls. They do not recognize the fact that the farmer in the field and the clerk at his desk may consecrate his life and his work to God, even while about his daily tasks.

Mr. Thorson then took up other excuses, among which is the one, "I am too sinful." On the face of it, and upon the promises of Christ and that salvation and forgiveness is open to everyone, such an excuse cannot stand, the speaker declared. If the one who gives it realizes that he has sinned, and sincerely wishes to repent, the way is open and he will be forgiven.

There is the excuse that "I have tried to accept God, but have failed; I was not accepted," which amounts to saying that God has rejected them. Such a case shows lack of fortitude and perseverance. And the excuse is an indictment against God placing upon him the blame for human weakness of will power.

The excuse is sometimes offered that a person has no religious emotions, that their sensibilities are deadened to the spiritual things. Such a person needs an awakening to his own selfishness and sin. He needs to be made to realize his shortcomings and face the alternative of salvation or damnation. Then there is the man who says that the circumstances under which he labors are peculiar and mitigate against his becoming a Christian. He means to say that the demands upon him are too great and that his condition is something entirely peculiar and different from other men. Such a man needs to realize his circumstances, if need be, and then sacrifice his opportunities of salvation.

Mr. Thorson named other substitutes which are offered by the man and the woman who is loath to accept Christ, who seeks to hide behind excuses, looking to shift the blame, the devil accusing God of the blame. At the day of judgment, he said, when before the great white throne, man shall be asked why they did not believe and accept Christ, no one will check. Excuses will be vain and futile; they will be laid bare, as the refuge of lies which they are.

YOUTH FLIPS CARS; FRIGHTFULLY HURT BY C. & N. W. TRAIN

Robert Black Suffers Severe Injuries Saturday Afternoon Trying to Catch Freight.

Flipping freight trains proved costly Saturday to Robert Black, a youngster living in Monterey, and a student at the Lincoln school. Young Black western railroad right-of-way, just back from the Caloric company, and near the ball line when train No. 585, which leaves the new yards at three o'clock, came by. The freight was traveling at a good rate of speed when Black and his companion decided to catch a ride.

The other youngster swung onto the ladder on the side of a car without mishap. Black was not so fortunate. He was barely able to reach the first rung of the ladder, in a manner unexplained, he was jerked from his feet and thrown towards the track. Apparently he saved himself from death by his presence of mind in grasping the truck as he fell. His left hand was crushed, four fingers being amputated. He received a bad laceration of the head and also severe internal injuries at the seat of the spinal column. The accident is thought to have occurred at an intersection of the device which is held accountable for the condition of the youth's back, it being figured that in some manner he continued to hold onto the car truck until reaching the ladder, which caught his body and broke his hold, but not before tearing and mangling him to a great extent.

Black's companion did not see the plight of the injured boy, or else he witnessed the accident and was too scared to alert from the train. Some time after the freight had passed, Thomas O'Brien, the belt line switch tender, telephoned down town that either an injured or an intoxicated person was lying on the right-of-way some distance from his shanty. A switch engine was dispatched to the scene and brought the boy to the depot, where he was taken to Mercy hospital. Throughout he maintained consciousness and showed a remarkable amount of grit and gameness.

Today Black was reported by hospital attendants to be in as good condition as could be expected.

COOPER AND BRASS SUPPLY SHORT IN AUSTRIA NOW.

Geneva, Oct. 25.—Reports that the supply of copper and brass is failing in Austria, have been confirmed. Their attention was called to the fact that all the copper and brass fittings in the trains had been removed and replaced by iron or wood, while in many cases copper straps have been replaced by leather. Austria, like Germany, has organized copper and brass "days," when the whole population, from school children upwards, contribute. For several months efforts have been made by the Austrian authorities to obtain these metals from Switzerland, but without success. However, is going on via the lake of Constance. The Swiss papers contain many advertisements for copper and brass, the destination of which is unknown.

LAURENCE NOVASKI SHOT THROUGH FOOT

Accidental Discharge of Gun Causes Painful Injury to Hunter Sunday Afternoon.

Laurence Novaski, aged twenty-three, was shot through the foot and received an extremely painful injury Sunday afternoon, while hunting, by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of his hunting companion, Russell Parker. The injured man was rushed to the city by automobile and taken to Mercy hospital, where Drs. Waite and Van Kirk were called. He was reported as resting easier this morning. Novaski and Parker were hunting rabbits near Avon and shortly after three decided to return to the city. While unloading their pump guns, one of the shells in Parker's gun stuck and just as he was seeking to dislodge it, Novaski moved within range and the shell exploded striking him in the right foot near the little toe. Record time was made in the trip to the hospital and it is hoped that amputation of the toe may not be necessary.

MINE RESCUE CREWS ARE THOROUGHLY TRAINED FOR WAR HOSPITAL SERVICE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—The United States Bureau of mines is the greatest institution in the country for preparing men for war hospital service, declared a representative of the new director of the bureau today.

This is one detail of the new "preparedness" program. "In 48 hours," he said, "50,000 trained first-aid-to-injured experts could be mobilized in the great mining states of the country. I mean the trained mine rescue crews. Think what that would mean in this war. It has shown that economy in men is of vital importance and that the sooner a wounded man is given treatment the greater the chances are for his return to his firing line."

"Since 1908 the Bureau of Mines has done extensive demonstrations and training work among men in the big mining companies throughout the country. Every mine of importance now has its corps of trained mine rescue workers."

"These men are thoroughly expert in all sorts of bandaging, treatment of minor fractures, and in the use of wounds and probing for foreign objects in the body. In addition they are trained to use the oxygen helmet, which will permit them to enter places where the air is too poisonous to be breathed."

"Think how important this will be if the present 'poison gas' method of warfare is developed for a greater use in the future."

"In all mining states there is an hospital workers. Competitive drills annual mobilization of these potential are performed by the crews. This keeps the men in perfect training, accustoms them to working in a mine and insures the certainty of quick mobilization in time of war."

"These men form the finest field hospital corps in the world. They move over all kinds of ground and to overcome extraordinary difficulties due to their mine rescue work experience."

WAR HAS REFORMING EFFECT ON CRIMINAL RELEASED FROM JAILS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Berlin, Oct. 24.—The war's effects are distinctly noticeable in Germany's law-breakers, according to the "Association for the Betterment of Criminals."

Released convicts, so far as they have come under the observation of this organization, have, in a majority of cases, enlisted in the army if physically able to do so, and have made good in civil occupations where their health made it impossible for them to serve.

So many of the able-bodied released within the past three months have gone into the army that the association has had more jobs of a civilian nature than it could dispose of, and wages offered have risen accordingly. All but nineteen of the 538 men who have applied for work have been given something to do. The parole prisoners are said to have shown an unusually high percentage of apparent reform since the start of the war.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE MUST BE USED ON TELEPHONES.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) London, Oct. 25.—The English language must be used over the telephone, according to the latest order of the authorities. In this, the British government is merely following a rule long enforced in the other belligerent countries. England is still full of Belgian refugees, of whom only the children and youths have learned to speak English, and in the Soho district of London, French is still the language commonly heard of the streets. The new rule is expected to cut down telephone receipts in the foreign colonies, but the increase from four to six cents a call will add immensely to the postoffice revenues in the long run. The telephone system is government owned.

JANESVILLE LIBRARY IS FIFTY YEARS OLD

Building to Be Thrown Open to the Public on Saturday Next.—Refreshments and Music.

This week marks the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the Janesville public library. In accordance with the occasion, the library board of directors have deemed it opportune and wise to observe the birthday in a befitting manner. Accordingly they have arranged to have an open house on next Saturday.

The building will be fitted especially for the occasion. During the evening an orchestra will play from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

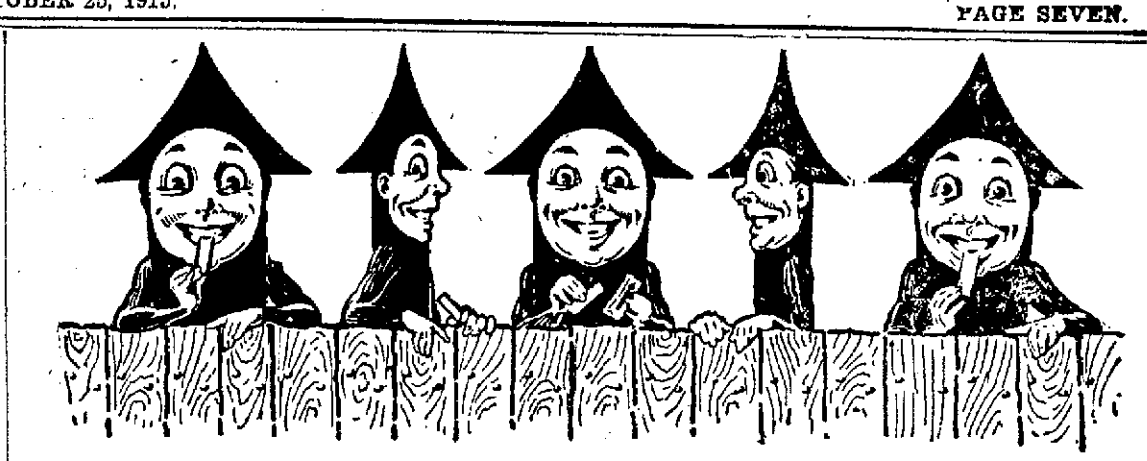

A cordial invitation has been extended to the public at large to be present. Aside from the innovations already mentioned there will be a large exhibit of articles of much interest. These include antiques, collections from foreign countries, etc. No charge for attendance will be made.

TO GIVE TWO LECTURES AT ADVENTISTS' CHAPEL

L. E. Wellman of Milwaukee will give two lectures at the Seventh Day Adventists' chapel, formerly the Kimball Mission, on South Jackson street, one on Tuesday evening and the other on Wednesday evening of this week. The subject of Tuesday will be "Missions and Mission Fields," and on Wednesday "War, Its Causes and Results."

CHESS AND CHECKER TOURNAMENT TO BE ORGANIZED AT "Y"

SOUTHERNERS PLAN TRIBUTE TO OGDEN

Will Commemorate His Devotion to the Cause of Education in the Southern States.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Richmond, Va., Oct. 25.—The memory of Robert Curtis Ogden, who died August 1, 1914, is to be commemorated by the Southern States.

A large public meeting to be held in Richmond on November 26, when Mr. Ogden's early associates will commemorate his devotion to the cause of education in the Southern States, and will describe the amazing growth of the work he started.

The meeting is part of a plan proposed by former President William F. Taft, Ambassador Walter E. Page, Commissioner of Education P. P. Claxton and seventy-five other leaders in national and educational affairs, to erect a memorial to Mr. Ogden in the form of an auditorium building at Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va.

Mr. Ogden, who was president of the trustees of the Hampton Institute for nearly 40 years, was the leader of constructive work along educational lines in the South that led to the formation of the Southern Educational Board in 1901.

Most of his associates, who are today at the heads of Southern universities, and state and national systems of education, believe that his work should be remembered in a permanent memorial, and it is planned to make the building at Hampton Institute a testimonial of appreciation from his friends in the North and South, both blacks and white.

Some of the prominent names identified with the Committee are Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post; Albert Shaw of the Review of Reviews; Talcott Williams of the Columbia School of Journalism; John M. Glenn of the Russell Sage Foundation; Booker T. Washington, the negro educator; President E. A. Alderman of the University of Virginia; President Charles Dabney of the University of Cincinnati and Dr. Wickliffe Rose, of the General Education Board.

Dr. Sutherland and his wife have the sympathy of the community in the hour of their sad misfortune—the loss of their infant daughter and only child, which occurred Sunday morning.

The funeral services took place at three o'clock this afternoon. Hon. Frank Leland of Delavan was in the city today.

NO MORE WEIGHTS CAN BE MADE FROM COPPER OR BRASS IN GERMANY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Berlin, Oct. 25.—Because copper, nickel and brass are so much more valuable for other things—namely ammunition—the Imperial Normal Assaying Commission has decreed that weights and measures no longer must be made from them, but that iron may be utilized. Iron heretofore has been forbidden because weights fashioned from it have been inaccurate.

Forty Years Ago

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 25, 1875.—W. R. Newton, formerly of this city, died in Chicago on Saturday evening at seven o'clock. His wife, who was in this city, was telegraphed for and left on the three o'clock train, but owing to a delay on the road did not reach Chicago until eight o'clock, an hour after his death. The remains were brought to this city for interment this afternoon.

Nine days of rain since the first of October.

A large number of horses in the city are affected with epizootic, though there are no severe cases. The present rain will have a tendency to spread the disease, besides making the cases more severe.

In Lexington he had bought a ring and at Peril he had got a marriage license. His camp-following days were over. He had one youth, and he knew that if his enemies succeeded in their designs that might at any moment be snuffed short with sudden death. It did not seem to him that one of its golden hours should be wasted.

As he came out of the courthouse with the invaluable piece of paper in his pocket two men, seemingly unarmed, rose from the doorway of the store across the street and drifted toward their hitched horses.

Young Milt McElrath had ridden over to Peril that day with several companions, and Anse and Harvey went back with them. So it happened that quite accidentally he made this journey under escort. The men who rode a little way in his rear cursed their luck—and waited. And, though they lurked in hiding all that afternoon near Anse Harvey's house, they saw nothing more of their intended victim.

Anse was keenly alive to each day's impending threat, and when he recognized the face of Jim Fletcher in Peril, as he came through, he had read mischief in the eyes and recognized that the menace had drawn closer.

So, when he was ready to cross the ridge to the school, he obeyed an old sense of caution and left his horse saddled at the front fence that it might seem as if he were going out—but had not yet gone.

He had sent a messenger for Good Anse Tallot, and the preacher arrived while he was at his supper.

"Brother Anse," he said, "I'm going to need ye some time betwixt now and midnight. I want ye to tarry here till I come back."

"What's the nature of business ye needs me fer, Anse?" demanded the missionary. "I hadn't hardly ought ter wait. There's a child ailin' up the top fork of Little Fork of Turkey-Foot creek."

"Gentlemen," said the Attorney, "This Business Has Need to Be Expeditious."

But Bad Anse only shook his head. "It's the best business ye ever did," he confidently assured the preacher. "But I can't tell ye yet. Is the child in any danger?"

"I reckon not; hit's jest ailin' but—"

The brown-faced man sat dubiously shaking his head, and Anse's features suddenly set and hardened.

"I needs ye," he said. "Ain't that enough? I'm goin' to need ye bad."

"That's a right strong reason, Anse, but—"

For an instant the old dominating will which had not yet learned to brook mufly leaped into Anse Harvey's eyes. His words came in a harsher voice:

"Will ye stay of your own free will because I'm goin' to need ye, Brother Anse?" he demanded. "Because, by God, ye're goin' to stay—one way or another."

"Does ye mean ye aims ter hold me hyar by force?"

"Not unless ye make me. I wouldn't hardly like to do that."

For a moment the missionary debated. He did not resent the threat of coercion. He believed in Anse Harvey, and the form of request convinced him of its urgency.

So he nodded his head. "I'll be hyar when ye comes," he said.

Anse left his house that night neither by front nor back, but in the dark shadows at one side, and his tall man of luck led his noiseless feet safely between the scattered sentinels who were watching his dwelling to kill him.

The school buildings slept in silent shadows, except that from the open floor of the room where her piano stood there came a soft flooding of lamplight—a single dash of orange in the nocturne of silver and gray. He went up very quietly, pausing to drink of the fragrance of the honey-suckle, and there drifted out to him, as he paused, the music of the piano and the better music of her voice.

She was singing a love song. Though he had sent no word of his coming, she was once more in evening dress, all black save for a crimson flower at her breast and one in her hair. But this time the sight of her in a costume so foreign to the hills did not distress him; it was a night that called for wonders.

She rose as the man's footstep sounded on the floor; and then, at memory of their last meeting, the color mounted to her cheeks and he took her again in his arms.

She raised her hands to his shoulders and tried to push him away, but he held her firmly, and while she sought to tell him that they must find their way back to the colorless level of friendship, he could feel the wild flutter of her heart.

"Listen," she protested. "You must listen."

But Bad Anse Harvey laughed.

"Ever since the first time I saw ye," he declared, "I've been listenin'. It has been a duel always between you and me. But the duel's over now, an' this time I win."

She looked up and her pupils began to widen with that intense gaze which is the drawing aside of the curtains from a woman's soul, and as though she realized that she could not turn herself to his eyes, she turned her face away. Only in its profile could he read the struggle between mind and heart, and what he read filled him with elation.

"Anse," she said in a very low voice, "give me a trace. For one hour let me think; it involves both our lives for always: let me at least have the chance to be sane. Give me an hour."

The man stepped back and released her, and she turned and led the way out to the porch, where she sank down in the hammock with her face buried in both hands. When at length she looked up she was smiling rather wanly.

"It can't be, dear," she said. But while she argued with words and ostensible reasons, the night was arguing, too—arguing for him with all its semi-steeping fragrance and alluring cadences and appeals to sleeping fires in their hearts!

And while she talked he made no response, but sat there silently attentive. At last he looked at his watch and put it back in his pocket. He rose and said quietly, but with a tone of perfect finality:

"Your truce is over."

"But don't you see? You haven't answered one of my arguments."

Anse Harvey laughed once more.

"I didn't come to argue," he said; "I came to act." He drew from his pocket the license and the ring.

"Brother Anse Tallot is waitin' over at my house to marry us. Will you go over there or shall I go back an' fetch him here?"

Quarrels rose from the hammock and stood unsteadily in the blue moonlight—an image of ivory and ebony. The man clasped both hands behind his back and gripped them there—waiting. But despite his seeming of confidence and calm his brain reeled gloriously with an intoxication of the soul. He saw her standing there, straight and lithe and slender, with the moon-washed sky at her back and the inky shadows of the porch throwing the picture into a vivid relief.

She took an involuntary step toward him with lifted arms, and then, with a strong effort, as if struggling against a spell, she drew back again, and her voice came very low and broken.

"I can't—I can't!" she pleaded. "But I wish to God I could."

Then Anse Harvey began to speak.

"Ye've talked, an' I've listened to ye. Ye've taken my life away from me, an' made it a little scrap of your own life—ye've let us both come to needin', each other more than food an' drink an' breath. For me there's no life without ye. In all the earth there's just you—you—you! For every true woman in the world a day comes when there's just one man, an' for every man there's just one woman. When that day comes nothin' else counts. That's why all them reasons of yours don't mean anything."

His voice had the ring of triumph as he added: "You're goin' to marry me tonight. Come!"

He raised both arms and held them out, and though for a moment she hung back, her eyes were still irresistibly held by the ardor and the magnetism that dwelled in them. With a gasping exclamation that was half surrender and half echo of his own triumph she swept into his embrace.

As she locked her fingers caressingly behind his dark head she wished for words fine and splendid beyond the ordinary to tell him of her love. But no phrases of eloquence came.

Then she felt his arms grow abruptly rigid and he was pressing her from him with a gentle insistence, while his face turned to peer into the moonlight with the tensile of one who is listening not only with his ears, but with every nerve of his being.

Slowly he drew back, still tense and alert, and from his eyes the tender glow died until they narrowed and hardened and the jaw angle stiffened and the lips drew themselves into their old line of warlike sternness.

She looked again into the face of the mountaineer, the feudist, of the wild creature turning to stand at bay.

For a moment they remained motionless, and her fingers rested on his arms and felt the strain on his tautened biceps.

"God!" he muttered almost inaudibly.

"What is it?" she whispered, but he replied only with a warning shake of the head.

Once more he stood listening, then gently turned her so that his body was between her and the outside world. He thrust her back into the open door and followed her inside.

His words came slowly, and though they were calm they carried a very bitter note.

"I must go. I hoped they'd let me live long enough to marry ye, but I reckon they're weary of bidin' their time."

He had closed the door and stood looking down at her with a deep hunger in his face.

"What is it, Anse? What did you hear out there?" Her face had gone pallid and she clung to his arms with a grip that indicated no intention of release.

"Nothin' much. Just the cracklin' of a twig or two; just some steps in the bush that was too cautious to sound honest; little noises that wouldn't mean much if I didn't know what they do mean. They weren't friendly sounds. They're after me."

"Who? What do you mean?"

Her voice came in a low panic of whispering, and even as she spoke the man was listening with his head bent toward the closed door.

He laughed mirthlessly under his breath.

"I don't know who they've picked out to get me. It don't matter much, does it? But I know they've picked tonight. I've been lookin' for it, but it seems they might have let me have tonight—"

His lips smiled, and for an instant his eyes softened again to tenderness. "This was my night—our night."

"If they are out there, Anse—" her eyes flashed suddenly and her grip tightened—"you shan't go. I won't let you go. In this house you are behind walls at least. I can't let you go."

"It's the only way," he told her, and again she read unshakable resolve written in his face. "My best chance is out there. Them mountains 'll take better care of me than any walls—if I can once get to cover."

Suddenly he wheeled and caught her fiercely in his arms holding her very close, and now her heart was beating more wildly than before—beating with a sudden and sickening terror.

He bent low and covered her temples and cheeks and lips and eyes with kisses.

"God knows, when I came here tonight," he declared, talking fast and passionately, "I didn't aim to ever go away again without ye. Now I've got to go, but if I come through, an' there's a breath or a drop of blood left in me, I'll be back. I'm a comin' back, dearest, if I live."

Her answer was a low moan.

He released her at last and went over to the gun-rack.

Standing before her shrine of guns, in her temple of disarmament, he said slowly: "Dearest, I was about the last man to leave my rifle here, an' I reckon I've got to be the first to take it out again. I'm sorry. Will you give it to me or must I take it without permission?"

She came slowly over, conscious that her knees were trembling, and that ice-water seemed to have taken the place of hot blood in her veins.

"If you need it," she faltered, "take it, dear—nothing else matters—Which one shall I give you?"

"My own!" His voice was for the instant imperious. It was almost as if someone had asked Odysseus what bow he would draw in battle. "I reckon my own gun's good enough for me. It has been till today."

She withdrew the rifle from the rack herself, and he took it from her trembling hands, but when he had accepted it she threw her arms about him again and clung to him wildly, her eyes wide with silent suffering and dread.

The crushing grasp of his arms hurt her and she felt a wild joy in the pain. Then she resolutely whispered: "Go, dearest, go! Time is precious now. God keep you!"

"Juanita," he said slowly, "I have refused to talk to you in good speech. I have clung to the rough phrases and the rough manners of the hills, but I want you to know always, most dear one, that I have loved you not only fiercely, but gently too. Not tender worship lives in your own world. If I don't come back, think of that. God knows I love you."

"Don't, Anse!" she cried with a smothered sob. "Don't talk like a soft-minded lowlander! Talk to me in your own speech. It rings of strength, and God knows"—her voice broke, and she added with fierce tenderness, "God knows, dear, eagle-heart, you need all the strength of wing and talon tonight."

Then she opened the back door very cautiously on the shadows that crept into inky blackness, and saw him slip away and melt instantly into the murk.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

arm and ran with it the whole length of the field instead of facing the crowd and fighting like a man.

A certain kind-hearted gentleman heard of a negro family that was in destitute circumstances. The family consisted of the mother, a son nearing manhood's estate and two young children. The benevolent old gentleman called to investigate the matter, and, after listening to the mother's story, gave her eldest son one dollar to get a chicken for the Thanksgiving dinner, and took his departure.

No sooner was he gone than the negroess said to her son: "Sambo, you done gib me dat dollah, and go get dat chicken in de natchral way."

Two young women were talking hats, servants, picture shows and things like that, when one of them casually referred to a certain Mrs. Smith.

"Poor Mary!" commented the other. "She is a perfect dear, of course, but she suffers much for her belief."

"Her belief?" responded the first, questioningly. "And what, pray, may that belief be?"

"She believes," was the soft cooing rejoinder of the second, "that she can wear a No. 3 shoe on a No. 0 foot."

Coughs and Colds

"Not to Be Neglected"

Anyone will realize the seriousness of neglecting a cold if he observes results of such neglect among his acquaintances. How often have you heard, "He caught cold, didn't do anything for it and it turned into"—then some dreaded disease is named.

Ordinary colds, if left to prompt treatment at the beginning. That is why every family should be supplied with a reliable cough medicine—one that will heal raw and inflamed eyes, loosen the phlegm, allay irritation, ease the hoarseness and stop the tickling sensation in the throat that does not permit one to sleep.

Money-Making Ways

of Using Want Ads

No. 9—Exchange of Things You do Not Need for Things You Want

Sometimes you buy things that somebody "talks you into," or the purpose for which you bought them has ceased to exist.

This material is so much junk so far as any value to you is concerned, and yet there are others who are wondering how they can get what you have no further use for. And maybe they own just what you want!

State what you have and what you want—and name a number of choices, so that your opportunities of getting one of the things you wish have been broadened.

Here are a few suggestions along this line:

WANT AD NO. 1
WILL TRADE A BICYCLE IN good condition for a set of encyclopedias, typewriter or anything else useful. What have you? Write at once, and describe your offer. (Address)

WANT AD NO. 2
TO EXCHANGE MOTORCYCLE, Cyclone, 1914 model, in good condition, for dining room furniture, fur or rockers. Explain what you have, and reply to: (Address)

WANT AD NO. 3
WILL TRADE SET OF GOOD boxing gloves for books, gazing tackle or anything else useful. What have you to offer? (Address)

WANT AD NO. 4
TO EXCHANGE—HORSE AND buggy, 10 years old, weight 80 pounds, buggy single-seated, rubber-tired. Want furniture or piano. (Address)

Just a few pennies will put you in touch with these people, and you can trade, without losing nearly as much as you would if you had to sell for cash.

You may have a lawn-mower, and recently moved into a flat. You may have a gun or fishing tackle, and no longer care to hunt and fish. You may have a horse and buggy, and have purchased a motor car. You may have a piece of encumbered property and want merchandise instead. There is scarcely any field that could be mentioned that does not present real chances of trading to your advantage, as well as to the other person's advantage.

As Good As Earning Money

Whenever you can exchange things that are of no use to you for things you can use, you are as much ahead as though you had earned money. Look around and see what you can exchange. Somebody else wants it—now!

The Want Ad is a Market for Everything

Married Life on $80 a Month

"Aren't you tired of being my guests' value? My never-ending woes never get very monotonous." Molly slipped dropped into a chair and bowed her head on her hands.

"I am never tired of trying to help, but I am disappointed that your woes are not going well. Everything seemed so encouraging the last time you were over. What has gone wrong?"
 Olive took the shawl from Molly's shoulders and smoothed it back and forth over the tumbled hair.
 "Oh, it's money,
 of course. It always does. I wonder what I could have to quarrel over who have money enough to buy what they want. I am so sick of being blamed
 because there is no money to pay the bowed head.
 "I think and think and try to plan a way out of this awful tangle and there is no way."
 "The problem is too deep for me to solve, my dear. I am so peace not by trying to get help solution to your troubles, but by just dropping them altogether and devote-ment yourself wholly and unreservedly to seeing what you can make of your daily kindness and consideration of them, and by your resolute forgetfulness of self."
 Molly raised her head and looked about ready to cry.
 "Your husband has so great a load of care that he is not in a normal state of mind. I dread him as you would if he were weak and morose.
 I can't over what he says than you would be over the speeches of a fever patient. But you must be just as cheerful not to irritate him as you would be if every excitement was a danger to his life."
 "Why, he is not sick; he is as well as I am. He works no harder and he is stronger than I am in the bargain," flamed Molly in sudden heat.

 "He wants everyone to consider him, of course, but he has no time to think of my side of the burden."
 "Do you want him to? Are you not glad you can help by carrying your part bravely and cheerfully?"
 Everything you carry makes his burden that much lighter."
 "He isn't worrying about making my burden lighter," grumbled Molly.
 "Forgive me if I hurt you, but—"
 Olive paused.
 "Go on," said her friend.
 "Are you sure you love your husband?" Olive asked earnestly.
 "If you knew how I am treated for some little expression of love you would not doubt it," said Molly looking down.
 "Longing for caresses is not love, necessarily. True love expresses itself in service to the one who is loved."
 "Love struck the chord of self which trembling vanished out of sight."
 "Pray God to give you so deep a love for your husband that your greatest happiness will be to help him bear his burden. Be a real yoke fellow. That's what marriage really means."
 There was silence for a time as Molly looked out of the window.
 "And I have been demanding instead of giving; demanding consideration, love, appreciation. When I don't get it, I was furiously angry, and resented the ill treatment. That hatefulness put a wider space between us."
 "As if demanding could ever bring love," whispered Olive.
 "You are young. How did you ever learn so much?" Molly turned and looked wonderingly at her friend.
 "I have a glorious father who has always put my shallow little cup full of his wisdom," answered Olive smiling.
 "I have much to think about; more than I can take at one load, I fear," said Molly sadly.
 "There comes Dr.
 Ellson with little Jack. How hard the child looks. The doctor knows the happiness of service." She smiled up.
 "Thank you, dear friend. Goodbye."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a good piece of black velvet that I wish to use for trimming. It is practically as good as new except for the wrinkles. Will you please tell me how to get the wrinkles out without spoiling the velvet? ANXIOUS.

Turn a very hot flat iron upside down; put three or four thicknesses of wet cloth over the iron and then nap up. The steam from the cloth will raise the nap. Lay the velvet over the cloth with nap up. The steam from the cloth will raise the nap. Let the velvet dry and do not iron it.

BABY'S DRESSING BOX.
Get from the grocer a box that held packages of flower seeds. Varnish the outside and line with mercerized sateen. Inside of the lid tack a piece of ribbon to match the lining. Tack to form pockets in four places. In these slits put comb, brush and small scissors.

Make a pincushion of sateen, the width of the box, and tack in place at one end of the box.

In the box may be kept vaseline, medicated cotton, boric acid, baby syringe and powder, also soap and wash cloth in rubber bags.

This is much better than the baby basket, as everything is protected from the dust.

remember that they feel just as she does, and to control her natural impulse to blame them and make them suffer.

On another occasion, she admitted to me that if she received too much change, or was undercharged for an article, she in any similar way advantageously played a trick on the salesmen. When she went back to the shop and without drawing the attention of the manager tried to fix the matter up. "Aside from the fact that I am sure she is a plain, sensible woman, I think she is a plain," clerks are sometimes docked for mistakes, and I wouldn't want to gain at the expense of their pay envelopes."

An absence of sympathy and forbearance for the mistakes of others is a kick that only those who never make mistakes have a right to.

And yet how many of us, who can by no means qualify for the mistakeless class, show an utter lack of sympathy for a mistake that has big army of public servants whom the humblest of us have in our employ.

STATE SHOULD PAY FOR TRANSFERRING PATIENTS

Madison, Oct. 25.—In an opinion to the state board of control Attorney General Owen held the state should pay the expense of transferring a patient from Milwaukee county hospital to the insane to a hospital in another state, and the person transferred was a legatee of the other state. Peter McAndrews was transferred from the Milwaukee hospital to the Iowa state hospital for the insane. The secretary of state refused to audit the claim of expense until the opinion was given by the attorney general approving it.

The Hygienic Shoe.

We have no favorite brand of shoes to exploit, but we wish to spread far and wide a few rudimentary facts about the human foot and footwear.

First, let us reiterate the injunction to go in shoes that are strong, unrestrictive and of a natural foot shape. If you are forced to wear anything but these things, if anything, at all, wear it if it doesn't too out. One who wears usually toes straight ahead or inward, and usually considers this as sufficient about, considering footprints or failing arches.

Next, buy only such shoes as permit this. This latter injunction is so very important that it may be better to enlarge a little upon it.

When you wear a shoe, your foot makes footprints on the bath-room floor. It will be observed that the middle line from the heel intersects the middle line from the toes at an angle the angles of which bend inward. That is, the foot naturally turns inward, not outward, as most shoemakers teach to think.

The great toe adheres to the straight and narrow path—it keeps in a line parallel with that of its fellow. The inside sole line of the shoe, therefore, should be practically straight, never curving outward as shoemakers like to make it.

In buying shoes, you should examine the path from underneath. If the toes, together, see how the sides look, there is a marked space between the toes when the shoes are worn together, side by side? Then the shoes are made for bunnish shoemakers, and they will cause foot strain and weaken the arches.

A sole at least as wide as the impression of the foot under the weight of the body has the least chance of being as wide as the naked heel—and we have never seen one on a normal adult less than two inches wide. A sole as wide as the turn one and one-half inches high. A box to contain the shoes. These are the important features to consider. Everything else is secondary for a matter of taste.

Not every thing is called "Hygienic" or "Anatomic" is good to wear. Nor is it necessary to wear brogans or ugly looking shoes. A common sense in selecting shoe wear enables the wearer to conform to fashion and still enjoy foot comfort. No fancy fixings need be purchased. A dealer has to consult the near-specialist clerk about it. Just buy what you need on your own responsibility.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Ulcerated Tooth Soggy Survives.

How soon is it safe to have an ulcerated tooth extracted?

Answer—Just as soon as you can persuade the dentist that you don't want the tooth any more, it is soon.

Emetics.

What would you consider a useful emetic to have on hand for household emergencies?

Answer—A good emetic is one you can't keep down. A tablespoonful of mustard flour stirred in a half cup of lukewarm water. A teaspoonful of soap of potassium bichromate should be repeated in fifteen or twenty minutes if necessary. Either emetic will remove from five to twenty minutes a common case of intestinal obstruction. A common case of atoneus emetic for babies or adults is one grain of copper sulphate dissolved in a tablespoonful of water. This dose should be carefully measured, but it is effective.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-one years old and I have been keeping company with a young man several years older than myself for years now. We are engaged to be married, but it seems as though he can never be strong enough for some cause or other. He is a good worker. He promises to try to be in shape in six months. He says that he loves me dearly. I love him, too. Lately he has been very familiar and wants too many privileges. When I object he says it is all right, as we love each other and are aiming to marry. I have always been a good girl and am regarded as such, but I am to doubt whether I deserve such respect. Please advise me what I had best do.

LILLY.

Never permit a man any privileges that you instinctively feel are wrong. If a man loved and respected you, he would have no occasion to demand that he was too familiar with you, too, he would find some way to save or earn enough money to marry you. Give him up. You are very young and will meet many more men that you will like and probably love more than this one.

***

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman with two children and have been married for twelve years. My husband is so cross to me and the children that I can stand it no longer. He doesn't seem to care for anything but drink and to spend all his money on himself. He will never tell me a word about himself and scarcely speaks to me or the children.

While my husband and I were going together I met a young man who came to see me a few times. When my husband found it out he did everything he could to keep us apart. He told things that were not true to break up our friendship. He said, "If you get him you will be sorry—he won't be good to you." I think now that he would be much better to me than my husband is. I could be happy with him, and now I am so unhappy.

My husband won't work. He wants me to work hard and make the living. He doesn't care whether we have anything to eat or not. When I think how happy all my girl friends are with their husbands, I have to cry. Then he calls me all kinds of names. I wish you would tell me what to do.

THANK YOU.

You are not alone in your trouble. Many, many women have the same kind of husband—perhaps some of your friends have—but they are careful to hide their wrecked lives from the view of outsiders. If you cannot be happy and cheerful with your husband I think you ought to leave him. Since this burden of a bad husband falls on you, anyway, conditions would not be worse, and they would probably be better.

***

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I loved a girl dearly and she seemed to love me, but now I live in another town. I wrote to her several times and she wrote to me once or twice. She always welcomes me when I go to see her and writes me one letter after I leave. I don't know what to do. Can you tell me why this is?

(2) I like a girl here, where I went to high school last winter, and she seems to like me. How can I find out if she is really in love with me?

(3) She is a nice girl and her folks don't allow her to go out with anyone. Don't you think they are very sensible, as she is only fourteen?

SONNIE B. BONDY.

(1) She probably doesn't like to write letters. I wouldn't write any oftener than she does, if I were you.

(2) Only by asking her to marry you, and you are too young to do anything so rash.

(3) Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is a girl twelve years old too young to go

JUST SAY SIMS

YOU have often heard of Sims—the new breakfast food made of selected Northern wheat and roasted barley malt. But have you tasted it yourself? The roasted barley malt which shows in little brown particles in the food gives Sims a new satisfying flavor which no one can forget.

Sims is the concentrated essence of the two richest cereals—wheat and barley. It is manufactured in a new sanitary factory and is not touched by human hands. Sims comes in paraffine covered, air-tight, waterproof packages.

Until you have tasted Sims yourself you are not a judge of breakfast foods. Why not ask your grocer to send you a package today?

Sims may be prepared in a great many new delicious ways. Just try some of these and surprise your family.

RECIPES

SIMS FOR BREAKFAST

■ To 5 cups of boiling water add 1 cup of Sims and  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt, stirred in slowly. Boil 10 to 20 minutes, preferably in double boiler. Serve hot with sugar and cream.

SIMS WITH RAISINS OR OTHER FRUIT

Prepare Sims as directed for "Breakfast Food". After five minutes, or when mush is well thickened, stir in a cup of seeded raisins. Serve as breakfast food, or with cream for dessert or luncheon. This preparation may be moulded in cups and served as a delicious cold dessert with cream, plain or whipped or with fruit sauce.

SIMS INDIAN PUDDING

Beat 2 eggs with 2 tablespoons molasses, 4 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 of cinnamon and  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt. Into 1 quart of hot milk stir  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup of Sims and let it come to a boil, stirring constantly. Add this to the egg mixture, stir and turn into a buttered pudding dish, add 1 cup of raisins, if desired. Bake for half-hour and serve with cream, sweetened with brown or maple sugar and slightly flavored with vanilla.

SIMS NUT BREAD

Mix thoroughly  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup of Sims,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of white flour sifted with 2 teaspoons baking powder,  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of sugar and  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup broken or sliced nut meats. Beat an egg and to it add  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of milk. Add milk and egg to dry mixture, then beat in  $\frac{1}{2}$  tablespoon of melted butter. Beat well and pour into a buttered bread tin; allow to stand 10 or 15 minutes and bake until done (40 or 50 minutes) in a moderate oven.

Here Are Two Volumes Destined to Become the Most Famous of Their Kind in the World

“HEART THROBS!”

The original Joe Mitchell Chapple $10,000 Prize Books! Prizes awarded by U. S. Senator W. B. Allison and Admiral George Dewey. Ten Thousand Silver Dollars awarded to 840 successful contestants out of more than 50,000 English-speaking lovers of English Literature.

THE GAZETTE

is proud to announce that it has been successful in securing the exclusive privilege of presenting Practically Free! these volumes to its readers

TWO BEAUTIFUL VOLUMES

Limp Binding—Red Edges—Round Corners—
Bound Like a Bible

A most marvelous collection of song, anecdote and story; of poems, grave and gay; of epoch-making orations; of bits of world-changing history; of words of wisdom from the sages of all ages.

OUR OFFER:

We offer these Magnificent Volumes to Our Readers for the Coupons clipped from our paper, and the bare cost of distribution to us. Our ONLY object is to cement old friendships and create new ones.

TWO UNIQUE BOOKS; of the People, for the People, and by the People!

THE GEMS IN THIS WONDROUS COLLECTION ARE TO BE HAD NOWHERE ELSE!

They beat with the great pulse of a common humanity! Loved by the millions and the masses! Ruddy with the crimson tides of the Universal Heart Throbbing throughout the World of Man!

No Matter What your Mood—you find its quick response in “HEART THROBS.”

IF you seek laughter—long, loud, lung-filling laughter—find it in “HEART THROBS”—and laugh with the thousands who put it there, till your eyes brim over and your muscles ache with the novel strain—not of pain, but of pleasure.

IF you seek a tender sentiment that has caused thousands of eyes to fill with tears, and thousands of hearts to thrill to the one inimitable touch of Nature that makes the whole world kin—find it in “HEART THROBS”—and become a better man or woman!

IF you seek for a wisdom that has its inspiration direct from the fountain-head of Divinity, and imparts it with a simplicity of utterance that the wide world understands—in language that illumines the mind as the lightning the skies of midnight—go, seek, and you shall find it in “HEART THROBS!”

Every Reader Entitled to a Set of These Matchless Volumes

What the Two Volumes Contain:

“HEART THROBS” is filled from cover to cover with things that never grow old or die; the very things you wish a thousand times you had memorized, or knew where to find in print. There are more than 700 literary treasures that have endeared themselves to the masses of the plain people. The range is from gems like Tennyson’s “Crossing the Bar,” Kipling’s “Recessional,” and Webster’s “Reply to Hayne,”—to those ripples of laughter like “Leedle Yawcob Strauss”—bits of humor like “Little Breeches,”—or the inimitable “Origin of Roast Pig,” by Charles Lamb. The solemn truth is that there is no person in the whole world, who can read English, that could help adoring “HEART THROBS.”
